Dedication

To

FRANK WILLIAMS DURKEE

who has furthered the progress of Tufts by his faithful service—who has earnestly worked for the advancement of science—who has maintained the liberal spirit in education—who has won the respect of those whose privilege it has been to know him as a teacher and friend—we dedicate this book.

FOREWORD

IN THIS book we have aimed to present a record of the seventy-fourth year of the College and of the accomplishments of those who constituted its student body. We have endeavored to create an impression of the significant things of the year which may serve as a witness to the achievements of the past and an indication of the promise of the future. If these pages reflect this spirit successfully, our purposes have been achieved.

The College

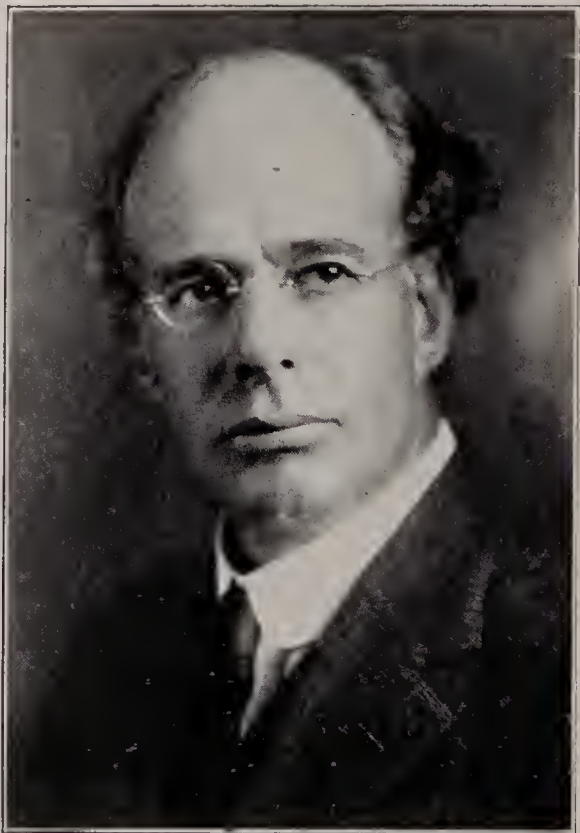

JOHN ALBERT COUSENS

A.B., LL.D., ΔΤΔ, ΦΒΚ

JOHN Albert Cousens became acting president of the College in September, 1919, and in June, 1920, he was elected eighth President of the College. He is a graduate of Tufts with the Class of 1898.

During the past ten years in which he has served as President, there has been great improvement and development of the College. There has been a large increase in the enrollment of the undergraduate body. There have been many additions in the matter of buildings, Pearson Laboratory, Fletcher Hall, Braker Hall, Stratton Hall, and the new Theological Buildings and Memorial Stairway all coming within this time. Along with this material advancement, has gone progress in academic lines and extracurricular fields of endeavor.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

IN THE work of the publication of this book the editors have received cooperation from various sources which has been most beneficial. They therefore desire to make this expression of their appreciation to Professor Melville S. Munro, whose assistance in the securing of photographs has been invaluable; to F. W., who so kindly permitted them to print sections of his diary; to Mr. Peter S. Gurwit, of Jahn and Ollier Co.; to Mr. William J. Heffernan, of the Heffernan Press; to Dr. Charles Gott, for his advice and encouragement; to White Studios and its representatives; to all our subscribers and advertisers who have made this book financially possible; and to all those who, in one way or another, have helped in the shaping of this, the 1929 JUMBO BOOK.

AROUND THE HILL

OUR OWN SAM PEPYS

(During the past three years the College has been fortunate in having had the observations of our own Sam Pepys, who has written at frequent intervals his impressions and comments on what he found in his college life. In many ways our Mr. Pepys has seemed a member of all of the classes; but more especially he seems a member of the Class of 1929. It is fitting therefore that this book should preserve some pages from his diary. We should like to express to him our personal appreciation and that of the College at large, as we offer these entries from the diary of our own Sam Pepys. The Editors.)

APRIL FOOLS' DAY. Up exceeding betimes, being highly resolved to make the most of the day which to my mind doth truly mark the incoming of Spring, no matter what prank the weather may play us of a sudden with an extremity of heat or cold. For now the bluebirds are with us again, and the great beech at our entrance hath put on that satiny sheen which doth always invite me to stroke its gray bark that I may more fully enjoy its texture. And as I look toward our willows and stately larches for the first signs of greenery, I can indeed almost believe "a tree to be among my far progenitors, such sympathy is mine with all the race; and I have many a long-lived, leafy friend" on the Hill to which I shall be loth to say farewell when June will bring sad parting to us all.

And this being the first day of our holiday, I did on my bravest garments and went early to the town to see what I might find to refresh me, for Lord! my wits have grown stale and dusty and do sorely need a change. And in the omnibus I did meet with a lively damsel who asked if April Fools' Day were not my birthday, and when I did answer nay, she said it by all rights should be, which idea so tickled my fancy that I am minded to ask a Justice if some change may not be made in my records, since I have always felt myself unworthy of the true date of February 22nd.

To the great Club in Trinity Place to lunch with my good chirurgeon where we did ourselves very well on steak with mushrooms and a fresh green salad with a ripe cheese; and we afterward fell into pleasant talk of college happenings of the past four years in the which he hath alway shown much interest. And albeit he doth rightly belong to Harvard-on-the-Charles, he spake with high favor of various Tufts events which he had witnessed at the Club, and of his hope that many of our college men may be aided in a practical way by their placement bureau, in which wish I did heartily concur. And when I marvelled openly at his hearty interest in us, who are so modest a neighbor, he quoth sagely that "it is not always the largest bird that casts the widest shadow in his flight, but oftimes the smaller, if only it fly nearer the sun"; which saying doth please me the more, now that I think on it soberly.

To the great Library and various galleries in the pleasant Square where are displayed so many choice pictures and objets d'art that the eye is all too soon surfeited with richness. Thence to a favorite playhouse for another mystery play, which God knows we should weary of, but seemingly do not; and as I watched an engaging little actress play her role, I wondered what that caustic critic, St. John Ervine, had eaten to upset him when he wrote that "women had spoiled the theatre, just as they had spoiled everything they had ever gone into." Noted with much pleasure that we may soon see more new plays, and hear some good old operas, for the which I must at once set about saving some monies. Late home by devious routes to my chambers, and to bed.

APRIL 19TH. (Patriots' Day) Roused from a sweet slumber by a great ringing of bells, I dressed myself at top speed in my gaudiest knickers and new sweater and made off to the village that I might miss nothing of the day's stirring events. For in all the years of my sojourn on the Hill I have but once failed to see Paul Revere gallop down the quiet streets of Medford town; and whether it be childish or patriotic, I know not, but hold it among my pleasant memories of these historic environs. And while waiting for the gallant horseman to appear, I fell in with some old cronies on a holiday who craved the latest gossip from the campus. And I, nothing loth, regaled them with sundry happenings,—of how the new hall for women had been opened with much pomp last season, and how certain merry dames did think the various booths should be named for different states, following the plan of South Station; and how one of them observed the whole effect to be Early American, in particular the parlour which is held too sacred for daily usage. And I did also tell them of the latest use found for the fire drill in a smaller hall, and of the great need for conservatories well stocked with sheltering palms in all reception rooms on Hill, holding that if we are to be truly co-educational in spirit, more provision should be made for elegant ease and private converse. Then they did question me as to a practical use for the Grand Staircase looking toward Robinson and the Annex, holding it a good idea for the annual Sing to be held upon its steps so that all who passed by in car or omnibus might be impressed, and the College profit by such timely Publicity.

Then one of them inquiring as to the plays of the year, he being of the cast of our notable Othello, I told him of how we had watched the fortunes of both "the quick and the dead" on the stage, and he could but hold them as spooky and think us wise to rest upon the repute of Emperor Jones and Outward Bound, and not venture into more wild and lawless fields of human experience, however vicarious,—the College this year having won such a name for sobriety and diligence that we do sometimes wonder if we are living on the surface of a volcano which may suddenly burst its bounds and disclose hidden, smoldering fires of independent thought.

The patriotic events being over, we made our way to the high tower in the Fells which hath welcomed so many wanderers from the campus in countless years, and as is our wont, gazed o'er the fair expanse of woodland and gleaming water with a wistful longing to hold its memory forever in our thoughts wheresoever the Fates may lead us hereafter. And the distant Chapel tower took on a glamour under the mild spring skies that is like to the softening haze of time. Home very cheerful, with much pleasant talk and merry jests, so that I did thank God, as often, for good friends!

MAY DAY. Up with the first robin on this my favorite morning of the year, and having made myself fine with a cold shower and a tingling dash of fougère royale, put off to the links feeling so skittish that when I met the Cynic who doth often annoy me by being first on the field, I asked him whether I most resembled Bacchus or Donatello; but he made answer morosely that to his mind I had the nature of a goat hid behind the manner of a lamb, which reply seemed to me but the churlish words of one who hath just lost his newest golf ball, so that it dashed me not a whit, albeit I know there is truth in his comment. But Lord! why should any one pause for dull introspection when the trees are in leaf and winter safely past!

The day's lectures being over, and my mind being so addled that I fear I have learned nothing whatsoever, to walk with Corinna who hath given me all too little of her company of late,—it being my accursed luck to place my affections on damsels who look fair to those more affluent than myself. And tho I do alway prate loudly of my penchant for walking as the most aristocratic and healthful form of exercise, I do sometimes mistrust her bright acquiescence when I see her flash past me in a jaunty green roadster whose driver I know not.

To a pleasant little coffee-house for supper, very seasonable and tasty, and then to walk round the Rez a little before turning to our waiting books; and as we looked across the misty landscape, Corinna did of a sudden surprise me with a verse writ long ago:

“God keep you, merry Gentlemen,
Wherever you may stray;
And turn your thoughts to Medford,
Whenever blooms the May:
For well you know, where'er you go,
There watcheth o'er you still,
The beacon that shineth on the Hill.”

And we spake together of how Samuel Pepys the Elder did in this very month of May in 1669, sadly inscribe in his diary, “And this ends all that I doubt I shall ever do in the keeping of my Journall”.

So to my chambers for a quiet hour of reading against the work for the morrow, with my good pipe for company,—and so to bed!

F. W.

PEN, PAINT, AND PRETZELS

PEN, Paint, and Pretzels is the honorary dramatic society, in which membership is open only to members of the senior class of Tufts. Originally, the purpose of the society was to encourage the writing and production of original plays. While the organization still works for this end, its chief function has come to be the promotion of dramatic interests by the production of worthwhile plays.

THE TUFTS WEEKLY

THE Tufts Weekly, founded in 1895, is the weekly paper of the undergraduate body, published every Wednesday of the college year. Prominent among its editorial policies of the year have been support of chapel as a requirement for a degree, discussion of fraternities and rushing rules, and advocacy of increased support for various student activities.

DRAMATICS

DURING the past season, the work in dramatics has been under the general direction of Professor William N. Morse, who came from Middlebury to succeed Professor Albert H. Gilmer.

The season opened with the production of three one-act plays by Masque on November 14 and 15 to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice. "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" was presented by a well balanced cast, with acting honors going to Miss MacDuffee as Mrs. Dowey and to Mr. Walsh as Private Dowie. The exceptionally fine work of Miss Pierce in the leading role of Hedwig carried the play, "War Brides." "O'Flaherty, V.C." was, on the whole, the most successful play of the evening, with fine work by the whole cast dominated by the work of Mr. Carney in the title rôle. The casts:

"THE OLD LADY SHOWS HER MEDALS"

By James Matthew Barrie

Mrs. Dowie	Ruth E. MacDuffee
Mrs. Twymley	Helen Tucker
The Haggerty Woman	Elizabeth L. Currie
Mrs. Mickleham	Mildred E. Robinson
Rev. Mr. Willings	George W. Tuttle
Private Kenneth Dowie	Warren B. Walsh

THE EMPEROR JONES

"WAR BRIDES"

By Marion Craig Wentworth

Hedwig	Janet P. Pierce
Amelia	Elizabeth T. Loud
Mother	Yetta Green
Hans Hoffman	Carroll L. Coburn
Minna	Delilah Riemer
Arno	Robert E. Polk
Captain Hertz	Richard V. Elms

"O'FLAHERTY, V.C."

By George Bernard Shaw

O'Flaherty, V.C.	Edward M. Carney
Teresa Driscoll	Kaye MacKinnon
Mrs. O'Flaherty	Kathryn M. McInerney
Sir Pearce Madigan	Hugh F. McKenna

The production of Eugene O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones" by Pen, Paint and Pretzels Society on December 13 and 14 was the outstanding presentation of the year. The play gave an opportunity for some of the finest acting and the most original sets on the Jackson stage in recent years. Mr. Mosely, in the title rôle, was always most effective, and upon his brilliant work depended in large measure the success of the play. Mr. Hairston did a fine bit of work in the part of the Witch Doctor. The sets were designed by Mr. Downes, a member of the society. Productions were also given in Winchester and Lynn. The cast:

The Emperor Jones	John E. Moseley
Smithers	Dorman J. Hayes
	Edward M. Carney
Lem	Jester J. Hairston
Old Woman	Elizabeth L. Currie

Pantomime Characters -

Congo Witch Doctor	Jester J. Hairston
Auctioneer	Vitot J. Vosilus
Guard	Charles C. Hersey
Jeff	Sheldon Christian

Negroes: Eben T. Colby, Harold Downes, Jester J. Hairston, George E. Kinmonth, Roger K. Poole, Richard T. Woodbury.

Planters: Chester E. Gilson, Robert W. Nicholson, Wallace A. Parkhurst.

Southern Belles: Eleda W. Burdoin, Marion N. Chick, Kaye MacKinnon.

Slave Women: Carolyn T. Earnshaw, Delilah Rimer, Yetta Green.

"Outward Bound" by Sutton Vane was the final offering of the Masque Society on March 7 and 8. The play was skillfully interpreted by the actors who successfully surmounted the difficulties of the unusual nature of the play. The members of the cast showed marked ability in making real the difficulties of the characters who become aware that, being dead, they are bound "for both Heaven and Hell." The characters:

Scrubby	Edward M. Carney
Ann	Muriel Simonson
Henry	Robert W. Nicholson
Mr. Prior	Raymond J. Fay
Mrs. Cliveden-Banks	Janet P. Pierce
Rev. William Duke	Warren E. Carley
Mrs. Midget	Mildred E. Robinson
Mr. Lingley	Ernest H. Brehaut
Rev. Frank Thomson	Warren B. Walsh

Owing to the decision of Pen, Paint, and Pretzels not to present a second play, the newly-organized Play Production class offered on April 24 and 25 the comedy, "The Whole Town's Talking" by John Emerson and Anita Loos. The play is highly amusing in its material and treatment and provided a wealth of entertainment. Making their last appearance on the Tufts stage were Miss Pierce, Miss Simonson, and Mr. Brehaut, who have been prominent in dramatics. The cast:

Harriet Simmons	Muriel Simonson
Henry Simmons	Ernest H. Brehaut
Chester Binney	Carroll L. Coburn
Ethel Simmons	Harriot G. Cazneau
Rogers Shields	Harold Downes
Donald Swift	Norman E. Eyster
Letty Lythe	Janet P. Pierce
Lila Wilson	Doris A. Goodwill
Sadie Otis	Eleda W. Burdoin
Sadie Bloom	Dorothea M. Duner
Annie	Frances M. Heald
Mrs. Jackson	Mildred A. Coolidge
Girl Friend	Barbara C. Cole
Taxi Driver	Newman M. Biller

There have been several noteworthy features during this season. A system whereby undergraduates act as assistant directors of the plays has been introduced. A new course in play production has been added to the curriculum. There has been the brilliant acting of John E. Mosely as the Emperor Jones and the sustained excellence of the work of Janet P. Pierce in all the plays in which she has appeared. The work of those who have taken an active part in dramatics in all its branches has maintained throughout the season the high standards set by their predecessors in this field at Tufts.

MUSIC

MR. CHIDESTER

THE work of the undergraduates in music has been under the direction of Lawrence W. Chidester, Braker Fellow in Economics, during the past year. Much credit is due Mr. Chidester for the impetus he has given to interest in the extracurricular field of music, as expressed in the band, the concert orchestra, and the operetta, "In Gilbert and Sullivan Land."

The band had the most successful season since its formation. It has had an extensive schedule of appearance in connection with the football and baseball games, and has played at functions like Tufts night, sings and rallies.

Burnham L. Paige is manager of the band, and Harris F. Neil is drum major.

The worth of the concert orchestra has been especially evidenced in connection with the operetta and the dramatic productions. In the operetta the orchestra gave a very finished performance and received much commendation for their effective accompaniment of the soloists and the chorus. An especially praiseworthy feature has been the music furnished by the orchestra in connection with the productions of Pen, Paint, and Pretzels and Masque. The orchestra plays under the leadership of Mr. Chidester.

On February 12 and 14, the Jackson Glee Club and the class in play production presented a revised form of the operetta, "In Gilbert and Sullivan Land," which had been produced here some years ago. The libretto was written by Professor William N. Reed. Professor Morse and Mr. Chidester cooperated in the direction. The production was a difficult undertaking, taxing the stage in its space requirements, and demanding all the best talent in the college to fill the needs of the chief solo parts. The cast:

Nanki-poo	Maurice M. Blodgett
Ralph Rackstraw	Joseph R. Yarrow
Hon. Joseph Porter	Norman E. Eyster
Ambrose Mulligatawney	Edward A. McCarthy
Josephine Corcoran	Muriel Simonson
Yum-Yum	{ Virginia Pettingill
	{ Marion E. Jenkins
Queen of the Fairies	Vivienne A. Forstrom
Harold Stanton	Theodore A. Hersey
Muriel Blake	Marion F. Stevens
O Ta Ka San	Joan A. MacWillie
Yum Yum's Attendant	Janet H. Motherway
Pianist	Elizabeth C. Sonier
Conductor	Lawrence W. Chidester
Also: Orchestra; Chorus of Yankee Tourists, Chorus of Fairies; Chorus of Policemen.

The girls have also been showing keen interest in musical affairs. In addition to being one of the sponsors of the operetta, the Jackson Glee Club has had two particularly successful appearances at the All Around Club Social and at the Christmas Entertainment of the Tufts Women's Club. A Jackson concert orchestra has also been started this year. The officers of the Glee Club are:

MILDRED A. COOLIDGE	President
WINIFRED P. CHASE	Manager
CONSTANCE R. HANDY	1929 Representative
MARION E. JENKINS	1930 Representative
KAYE MACKINNON	1931 Representative

EVENING PARTY ASSOCIATION

THE Evening Party Association is a self-perpetuating organization composed of representatives from various fraternities. The function of the society is to promote a series of formal dances throughout the year. Four dances are usually held, and these are considered among the most attractive dances of the social season.

COACH SAMPSON

COACH SAMPSON was addressing the members of the 1928 football team and the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity at the annual banquet tendered the team by that organization last January. In the course of his remarks "Sam" alluded to an introduction which he had received at a banquet a few weeks previous to that time. "Last year," said the toastmaster, "we introduced Arthur Sampson as the coach of the only unbeaten team in the East. This year we are just as glad to see him although we are forced to introduce him as the coach of a losing team."

"That introductory speech made no hit with me," Sam told his audience, "because this team before me is just as much a winning team as that one which turned back every one of its adversaries a year ago."

The student body shares Coach Sampson's feeling. Better teams aren't made than the one which fought the great Brown Bear to a standstill in the Providence Bowl last October.

Consider that game for a moment. Coach Sampson had been forced to build practically an entire new line from end to end because of the heavy inroads made by graduation and ineligibility. The line had shown up well in the three previous encounters, but it had met little to test its true mettle prior to the Brown game.

Brown was strong—as strong as it had been in the days of the famous "Iron Team." Yet Tufts with a "green" line and the not inconsiderable mental hazards of playing an eleven distinctly out of its class, out-fought the two best elevens which Brown could muster and only acknowledged defeat at the hands of their greatest athlete, Captain Al Cornsweet.

Captain Fred Ellis probably had the best afternoon in his gridiron career at Tufts—and he's had many good ones. The "Fish" put Tufts in the lead early in the second quarter by a brilliant 45-yard dash through the entire Brown team.

Coach "Tuss" McLaughrey of Brown substituted an entire new eleven at this juncture, but Tufts was not to be denied and before the half ended Ellis had gone over for another touchdown after the Jumbo eleven had bewildered the Bruins with a succession of short passes.

Brown evened the score in the third quarter, and then came the breathless battle which, with less than five minutes to play, was climaxed by Captain Cornsweet's 72-yard sprint for the score and the Brown victory. With the touchdown went Tufts' hope of annexing its 13th consecutive win.

The backfield was superb that afternoon, but how about the new line? A hundred and fifty pound sophomore end stopped play after play directed against his wing by a hundred and ninety-five pound backfield. It was only after Arlanson had been carried from the field in the last few minutes as a result of the battering he had taken that the Brown back was able to sweep off tackle for the winning score. Of Rachdorf and Ruggiero, who never played football until they came to Tufts, Coach McLaughry said immediately after the game: "The best pair of guards that have played in the Bowl for some time!"

MANAGER HOLMES

The team appeared to be pointed for another undefeated season when it started by easily disposing of the three Maine teams, although Bowdoin flashed a bit of power and held the rampaging Jumbo scoreless for the first half of the game. Two of the touchdowns in the Colby game came as the result of skillful forward passes from Phillips to Ellis. It was this passing combination which nearly spelled defeat for the Bruin at Providence and which accounted for long gains in most of the contests.

Coach Sampson's men showed the effects of their great stand against Brown when they met New Hampshire the following week. Tufts seemed to have a slight advantage offensively, but was unable to break the scoreless dead-lock with which the game ended.

The oft-repeated charge that Tufts had a one-man team received its death blow the next week when the team routed Middlebury with Captain Ellis on the bench nursing an injured knee, and with most of the regular line watching developments from the sidelines. Charlie Hingston provided the thrills and scores in the absence of the "Fish."

Homecoming day was fittingly celebrated by a 32-6 win over our traditional rivals M. A. C. Strangely enough, the score was identical with that made by the team at Amherst the year before and the Aggies' only score was made each year by Fred Ellert, the Farmers' star back.

Thus did our team complete its regular season with but a single glorious defeat and a tie game to mar its faultless record. Small wonder that its coach objected to its being called a "losing team."

For the second time during the Fall, the Tufts eleven went out of its class, this time in a Thanksgiving Day post-season encounter with the powerful Butler Bulldogs at Indianapolis. The lighter Tufts team, playing under miserable weather conditions and crippled by the loss of Fred Kennedy and Harry Arlanson, gave the best that it had, but it was unable to stem the wide end sweeps of Butler's "pony" backfield.

The long dashes of Cavosie and Hinchman, All-Indiana backs, the difficult field goal and the brilliant defensive play of Captain Ellis, and Tufts' great fighting finish, even though they were hopelessly outscored, were the highlights in our only real defeat of the year.

In summarizing the 1929 season we have nothing but praise for the signal accomplishment of Coaches Arthur Sampson and Lewis Manly in their development of the Brown and Blue outer defense. Undiscouraged by the lack of seasoned, or even rugged, material, they set out to build a line which would function in perfect co-ordination with a sturdy, all-veteran backfield and which would utilize every pound of its scanty weight to best advantage on the defensive. We have only to refer to the record of the team to note how well they succeeded in their difficult task. Tufts had at the close of the season one of the lightest and yet gamest lines in its gridiron history.

THIS winter basketball came out of the slump into which it had fallen since the highly successful season of 1924. The Jumbo quintet hung up a record of nine victories in fifteen games, three of which were lost by a single basket.

The outstanding performance of Captain-elect Win Horton, Red Butters and Dick Warren, hardly more than beginners at the game a year ago, is a tribute to the coaching of Lew Manley.

The return of Fred Ellis to the team after a year's absence was another factor in the success of the season. Fish again received "All" mention, this time as a forward on the mythical All-Eastern quintet.

The feature game of the season was probably the Boston University encounter. The clash was reminiscent of a like meeting with B. U. a year ago when Tufts was nosed out in two thrilling overtime periods. This year the game was bitterly contested all the way, neither team holding more than a two point advantage at any time. With considerably less than a minute to the final whistle, Ellis sank a foul shot to break a 31-31 deadlock and bring Tufts the victory.

TUFTS managed to maintain its excellent diamond reputation in the Spring of 1928 despite the persistent efforts of old "Jupe Pluvius" to spoil the season. It was necessary to cancel or call in early innings five important games, and at least two others were played under moist circumstances. Undoubtedly the Tufts record would have compared more favorably with that of the famous 1927 nine, had playing conditions been better.

COACH NASH

To a slightly lesser degree than this season, Coach Ken Nash was faced with the problem of developing pitchers. Eddie Smith was the only twirler available with varsity experience, graduation having removed Stan Robinson, mound ace of the previous year. The team was strong in the field, with practically an entire veteran lineup available.

Coach Nash decided to develop Mel Bowker, a substitute hurler on the 1927 team, to share the mound assignment with Smith. Mel promptly showed the effects of Nash's coaching by winning successively his first four games. He was finally stopped by the Holy Cross batsmen, the Crusaders taking an 8-6 decision in a closely-contested battle.

The Tufts nine did not fare so well in the final three games of the season. A dogged New Hampshire team flashed a squeeze play in the tenth inning to win the first of the trio of contests. Dartmouth gave the Jumbo team its first whitewashing in five years in the annual Class Day game. Behind the smooth-working Breckenridge, the Big Green turned back the Brown and Blue by an 8-0 score.

The Harvard game the following day saw the Tufts team in its best display of the season. Trailing 5-3 in the last half of the ninth, Tufts staged a desperate rally which brought home one run and very nearly tied the score.

AFTER carefully scanning the records of past years, it does not seem that we are making extravagant claims in labeling the 1929 wrestling team the best in the twelve year existence of the sport at Tufts.

It is true that the team suffered two reverses, one from a superior Yale aggregation, and the other by Brown, who edged our grapplers by four points in the Harvard Tournament to win the New England Intercollegiate title; but in the performance of its individual members this year's team stands out from all its predecessors.

Captain-elect Stella, in twice throwing Cardon of Brown, holder of the 115 pound championship, and in remaining undefeated in his two seasons of wrestling for Tufts, holds an unique record. Hardly less brilliant was the work of Captain Chick Garcelon and Charlie Hingston, both of whom were undefeated this year. Each emerged from the Harvard Tournament with an intercollegiate title, Garcelon in the 125 pound class and Hingston in the one hundred and seventy-five. Three Intercollegiate champions in one year is a record of which the team should be proud.

High praise is due Captain Garcelon for his sterling leadership and Coach Ruggeri, not only for his success with the team this season, but also for raising the sport from relative obscurity to a high plane in a few years.

VARSDITY GOLF

GOLF came into its own as a minor sport last spring, after a College tournament had uncovered some good exponents of the game. Dick Warren, twice winner of the college championship, and several other ardent devotees obtained Professor Houston's official sanction for the formation of a team to represent Tufts in inter-collegiate matches. Dick Warren was elected Captain. Practice matches were arranged and played with Amherst, Boston University, and Boston College.
